Our leadership team recently took on the VIA led working genius workshop. Here's our hot take.

In a two-hour deep dive, our team explored our Working Genius results and how to put them into action. We learned what drives each of us, why some tasks energize us, while others, even ones we're great at, can leave us feeling drained.

We discovered where our team thrives and where we have gaps to fill. It opened our eyes to how we can work together more efficiently and support each other's strengths.

It also helped us reframe those tasks we may not enjoy, but excel at, reminding us that they are not failures, but just a natural part of the process.

Now we're putting what we've learned into practice, working smarter, more effectively, and as a more unified team.
